

Ruth Ready for New Drive to Slugging Record: California Favorite in Meet

"EX-CAPTAIN" OF YANKS FACES A TOUGH HANDICAP

Has Registered But One Homer With a Quarter of the Season Gone—Zachary, Goslin and Peck Combine to Beat Hugmen, 3 to 1.

BY DENMAN THOMPSON.

TEMPORARILY extinguished, George Herman Ruth will bust right back into the national pastime and make a fresh start in the handicap race for home-run honors of the universe at the Georgia avenue stadium this afternoon.

This two-hundred-odd pounds of bone and sinew, whose prowess in wielding a forty-two-ounce base ball has earned for him an imposing list of aliases, has lost one title, that of "captain," as a result of the discipline imposed by Ben Johnson for that exhibition in New York Thursday, in addition to having some poor bookie's income reduced by a couple hundred rats in a fine that the league head's sentence carried with it. Now Babe will bend his energies toward disproving the only monicker which ever got a rise out of the usually good-natured giant, the one that caused him to invade the grandstand at the Polo Grounds in pursuit of the cowardly spectator who relied on the fact that he was one of a large crowd to escape the consequences of yelling "Big Bum."

Ruth has a most discouraging time-obstacle to hurdle in his quest for a new slugging record. Seven weeks, practically one-quarter of the season, already has slipped by and he has but one homer, a single and a double to show for his efforts with the fall in the six games he has played, a batting percentage of .138. At this time last season he had thirteen circuit clouts to his credit. Opinion is almost unanimous that he will not be able to even approach his record of last year, fifty-nine, but this is not what he set up the previous high mark of fifty-four, and even that of twenty-nine that he established the season prior to that.

Ruth has accomplished so many "impossible" feats with his budge that the spectators who followed him to do well to consider carefully before hocking the family fiver to wager against him, and we have well-remembered hunch that those who bet he could not overhaul Ken Williams, already credited with the highest batting percentage, will be troubled with numbers in the lower extremities by the fourth of July.

Huge Throngs Expected. Anyhow, weather of only a fair to midday brand will be necessary to assure throngs of near-record proportions on 7th street west this afternoon when the Bambino is due to inaugurate another drive toward the place in the batting averages.

Fully his, and the prospects that tomorrow they'll be turning 'em away. In the meantime, the Nationals, with the benefit of a fine display of flinging by Eusebio Tecumseh Zachary, a most opportune bludge, and a mischievous and sensational shortstopping by R. Peckinpugh, took the measure of the champion slugger in the fifth inning, and in the sixth, when he was in the batting line, he was hit by a line drive from Peckinpugh, which he hit into the right field fence, and the game was over. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Nationals' Off in Front. Goslin was on the producing end of the pair of tallies that put the Griffins in front at the outset. On one, he hit a home run, and on the other, he hit a double, and the game was over. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Shawkey was considerably peeved at the fact when he "ran up on" one of the Yanks' deliveries in the fifth. Shawkey voiced his resentment over the light regard for his stuff that Bobbie's action implied and proceeded to whip him with three on.

Peck drew a roar of applause in the seventh when he snatched Pipp's hopper with one in close to the key stone and flipped it to the pitcher. The double play he initiated in the ninth was an even more meritorious bit of work, and he limited the White Sox to five scattered bingles and got an 8-1 verdict.

With shanks battered up again and Bush still nursing a charley horse, La Motte got into the picture once more yesterday. Bob's feinting is about all that could be desired.

The Nationals still are in seventh place, but only a game and a half separates them from third position.

Full Fifty Doubles Play. Following the fourth the Hugmen were unable to register a safety off Zachary until the eighth when a fifty double play, which was the first of the season, was made.

Peck skinned over and scooped it up with his gloved hand, stepped on second to force Pipp, and then hit Judge for the two-ply demise that terminated the joust.

Hubbell is Improving. PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—A marked improvement is shown in the condition of Wilbur Hubbell in Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

Philadelphia National pitcher, whose skull was fractured by a batted ball. His condition is so good that he is expected to return to the team by the end of the month.

SCOTT MAY GET RUTH'S POST AS YANK CAPTAIN

Manager Huggins of the Yankees today said he had "given no thought" to the question of a new captain for the season. Roger Hornsby, who was named by the American League in relieving Babe Ruth of the job, in addition to being named for kicking over the traces Thursday in New York.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

GIANTS "GOING" AGAIN; HORNSBY GETS HOMER

The Giants are back in their winning stride again after shaking off the ill effects of the treatment they received from western rivals. Jess Barnes and Artie Nehf turned back their former foe the Boston Braves yesterday, pitching the champions to a double victory, 6-2 and 10-2, and stopping the winning streak of the Hub outfit.

New York, incidentally, increased its lead a game and a half over Pittsburgh. It was the eleventh victory of the season. Roger Hornsby, who was named by the American League in relieving Babe Ruth of the job, in addition to being named for kicking over the traces Thursday in New York.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

Brooklyn's Scott, shortstop, and Frank Baker, third baseman, are mentioned most prominently as probable successors to the captaincy. Baker acted as Yank manager when Huggins was suspended, and he is the favorite of the team's followers. The team believe Scott will be first choice for the position, which carries a small remuneration.

PRESIDENT NEAR VICTORY IN SCRIBES' GOLF EVENT

FAILURE to get down in two putts on the eighteenth green yesterday in the first tournament of the Washington Newspaper Golf Club cost President Harding a chance to win the E. B. McLean trophy. The event was held over the course of the Washington Golf and Country Club. The President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Lowell Mellett of the Washington News, with a gross card of 91 and a net of 67, won the McLean cup, leading the donor and Bryan Morse of the Washington Times, who were tied for second place, by one stroke. President Harding was two strokes behind the winner, with a gross 91 and net 69.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

Low gross in the tournament went to Walter B. McCallum of The Evening Star, whose card of 75 led that of Robert J. Bender of the United Press by one stroke. Horace Green of Leslie's was next with a 77.

President's Putter Fails. Playing with Bender as a partner against Henry L. West of the Washington Post and Arthur W. Dunn of the American Press Association, President Harding needed a five to win the cup, but his third shot at the eighteenth hole well on the green. He took his fourth putt, the President's putter, given to him by Charles Evans, Jr., about a year ago, failed in the pinch, and he took four putts on the last green to finish in fourth place.

HOLDERNESS IS WINNER OF BRITISH GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press. PRESTWICK, May 27.—E. W. Holderness of Walton Heath today won the British amateur golf championship by defeating John Caven of Cochrane Castle. Scott Snodgrass, one of the best players in the world, was runner-up. Caven was one up at the end of the morning round. A record crowd of 5,000 ardent spectators saw the match, one of the most exciting ever seen. The closeness of the competition because so many spectators during the afternoon round that one spectator, overcome by the excitement, dropped dead near the sixth green.

CAPITAL AUTO GOLFERS EASILY TAKE TOURNEY

The golf team representing the Washington Automotive Trade Association easily won first place in the intercity tournament, which has been in progress now for three days. The final matches were played yesterday over the course of the Columbia Country Club, and Washington increased its lead, finishing with 102½ points to New York's 84. Yesterday's prize winners were as follows: Washington—Low gross, D. C. McCready, 90-89-179; low net, L. S. Jullien, 95-86-181; handicap, 44-187.

New York—Low gross, C. H. Paul, 80-78-158; low net, C. G. Browne, 89-88-176; handicap, 44-187.

The first day tournament held over the course of the Baltimore Country Club, the Washington Golf and Country Club and the Columbia Country Club concluded with a dinner held at the last-mentioned club last night.

TITLE TO MISS STIRLING.

Easily Defeats Mrs. Jackson in Metropolitan Golf Match. CONVENT, N. J., May 27.—Miss Alexia Stirling, former national women's golf title holder, won the championship of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association by defeating Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, 6 up and 3, in the thirty-six-hole final at the Morris County Country Club.

Miss Stirling had an 83 in the first round, starting the last eighteen holes 4 up.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Southern Athletic Club's nine, which recently took a new lease on life, grabbed another game in the Potomac League yesterday when it met the Washington Athletic Club's nine. The game was a close one, with the home team leading 3 to 2 in the ninth, but the visitors won in the tenth, 4 to 3.

QUALIFIES ENTIRE TEAM FOR COLLEGIATE FINALS

Leads With 15, With Cornell Second With 13—All of Stanford's 10 Also Remain—Merchant, Coast Star, Breaks Hammer Mark.

By the Associated Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—It was still the west against the east today in the alignment of athletic forces for the final events of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. forty-sixth annual track and field championships. Thousands of enthusiasts went to the Harvard stadium to see the youth of thirty of the country's colleges in action, with a general agreement that California would win the meet.

In the preliminaries, California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.

Stanford, the rival of California, with a team of fifteen men, qualified all of them. Johnny Merchant, the stock Californian, with the build and power of a wrestler, qualified in four events and incidentally broke the intercollegiate record for throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, with his mighty heave of 171 feet 2 inches.